

Emergency Management Volunteer Scholarships

Study Guide

Applications for course and/or units of study are encouraged for emergency and disaster management.

As a guide, some applicable emergency and disaster management courses and units of study currently advertised by providers are listed below.

The list does not represent all providers or courses that may be eligible for funding, nor does listing imply AIDR's endorsement of the quality of any program over another.

Study mode options are stated as internal or external. Internal means taught face to face usually at the provider's premises, but also off site, whereas external includes other modes of delivery such as online and distance education.

The list is based on the current web based information provided by education providers and does not provide all details and may be inaccurate. It is essential that you confirm the details with the education provider when preparing an application.
